WE'RE ALL IN THIS TOGETHER:

UNITED FOR ONE ANOTHER AND FOR OUR COMMUNITY

In January 2020, Valley of the Sun United Way launched five 2020 Priorities to strategically build a five-year Impact Agenda that we planned to publicly unveil at our 95th anniversary celebration in October. Throughout development of the priorities and planning for the new Impact Agenda, we remain true to the guiding principle that we “open up” United Way to our community to listen and learn so our efforts focus where the community needs us the most.

In March, as the state of Arizona took action to address the COVID-19 pandemic, United Way quickly pivoted our plans, but not our approach. With guidance and input from our Board of Directors, donors and partners, we quickly mobilized resources and relationships to ensure our health and human services and education nonprofit and school partners have resources to meet the urgent needs of Maricopa County’s most vulnerable families, children and individuals.

REPRESENTING THE NEEDS OF OUR NONPROFIT AND SCHOOL PARTNERS

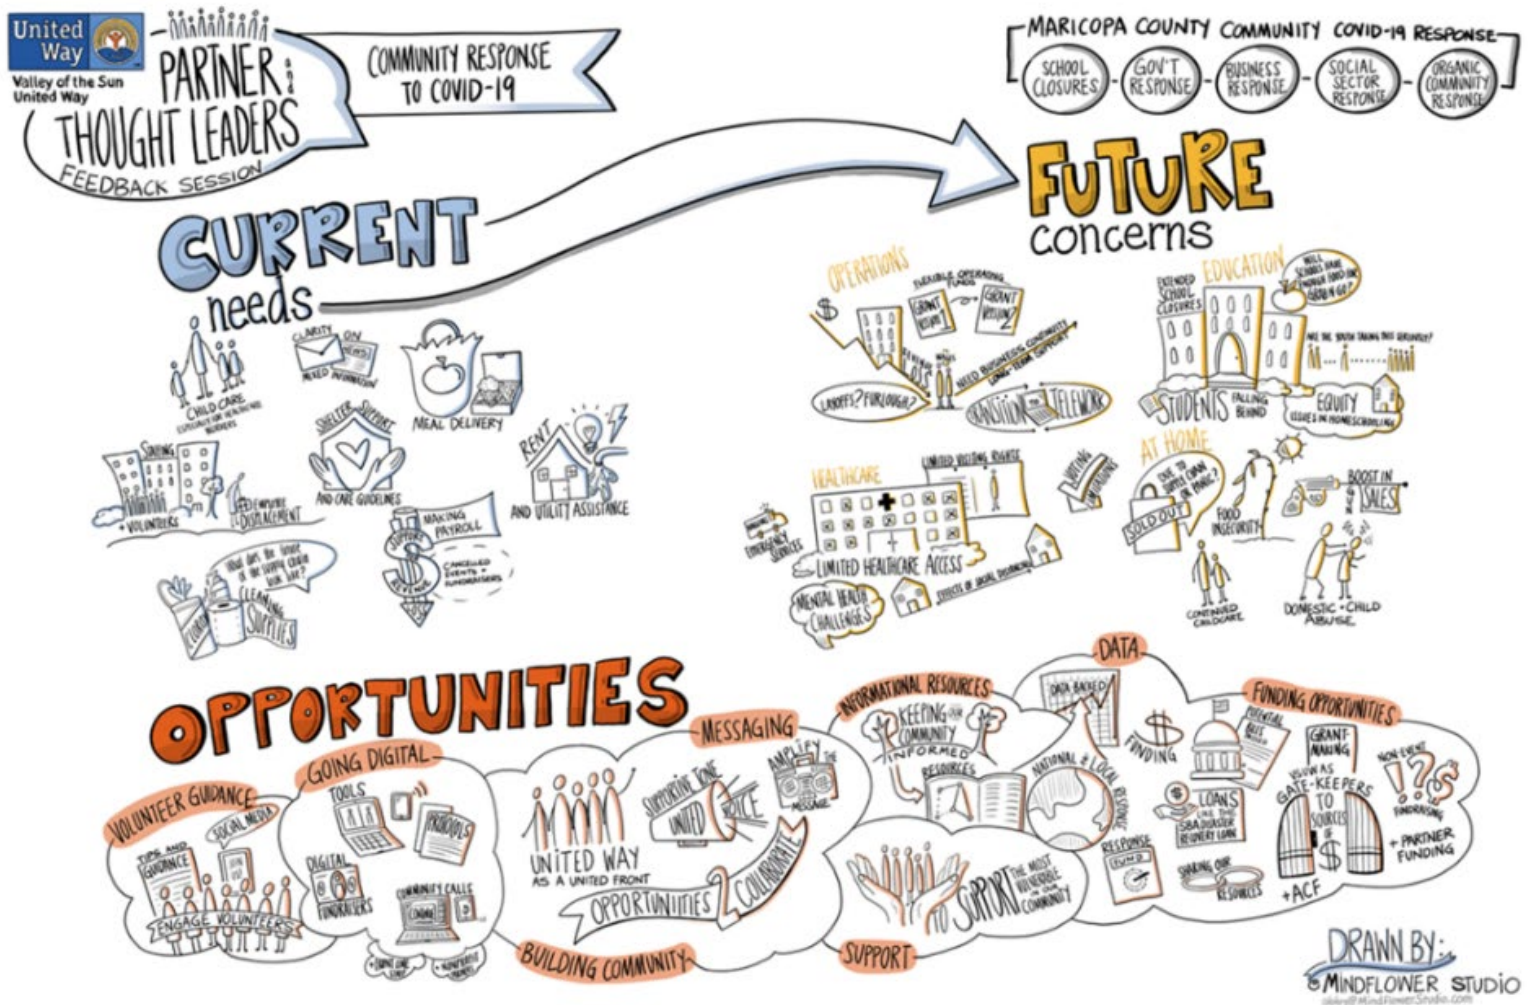

As part of our 2020 Priorities, we scheduled listening sessions with nonprofit thought leaders for early March. When the pandemic struck, we quickly reframed those meetings to be virtual and help guide our COVID-19 response. More than 150 people attended those first sessions and we've since held eight total sessions, to gauge nonprofit changing needs and concerns during the crisis.

From these sessions, it's clear that many of our partners are experiencing increasing demands for services related to housing, meals, access to childcare, lost wages, the health and safety of individuals experiencing homelessness, lack of technology and internet so children can continue to learn and the need for supplies, such as diapers and cleaning products. At the same time that these needs are growing, many of our nonprofit partners are losing revenue due to canceled spring events and other fundraising activities, so are experiencing immense financial pressures themselves.

Below is a graphic representation of the short- and long-term concerns expressed by our partners.

We continue to host ongoing sessions. Evolving priorities include technical assistance in areas such as navigating the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loan applications and I.T. support for virtual work. In addition, partners are sharing communications resources, organizational best practices and are beginning to plan for what our community will need for the post-COVID-19 recovery.

NEEDS AND CONCERNS SHARED IN VIRTUAL MEETINGS

FUNDRAISING

UNITED FOR THE VALLEY COVID-19 FUND

Like many organizations and businesses across the nation, local nonprofits are feeling the severe economic impact of the health crisis at the same time that requests from struggling individuals and families are at record highs.

In collaboration with our nonprofit partners, Board of Directors, and donors, United Way created the United for the Valley COVID-19 Fund and seeded it with $200,000 to support Maricopa County's health and human service and education nonprofits and school partners' growing list of critical needs. We launched the fund in collaboration with the Arizona Community Foundation and its statewide fund, to ensure effective and efficient fundraising and grant distribution in Maricopa County. In less than one week, businesses, individuals and foundations donated more than $1 million dollars and a week later, United Way began accepting grant applications from its nonprofit partners. One hundred percent of the funds raised are channeled back into the community.

Additionally, United Way created an easy-to-use giving portal that businesses can use to run employee fundraising campaigns to support COVID-19 response.

Thanks to the generosity of so many in the community, the relief fund has raised nearly $2.6 million, as of May 8, 2020.

“It is our hope that our contribution, along with the others, can help the community through this difficult time and lead us into a time of rebuilding together.”

“To fellow Valley of the Sun residents...during these unprecedented and challenging times, it occurred to me that I could make a real difference in people’s lives by supporting the [United for the Valley] COVID-19 Fund. If everyone who has a few extra dollars would contribute what they can, for those who are hungry or otherwise in need now in Arizona, the increasing devastation caused by this virus can be mitigated. If there is ever going to be a time to donate with conviction, now is that time!!”

GRANTS

FUNDING THE MOST URGENT NEEDS

Within two weeks of launching, the United for the Valley COVID-19 Fund began issuing grants to meet our community’s most urgent needs. As of May 8, 2020, more than 91% of our existing nonprofit partners have applied for grants. In five weekly grant cycles we’ve distributed $1.29 million to 65 nonprofit and school partners throughout Maricopa County. Each grant cycle, requests are reviewed and funds are allocated by United Way staff and an ad hoc committee of our Board of Directors. Each week, United Way partners with Arizona Community Foundation to review Maricopa County funding requests, ensuring efficient and effective distribution of funds.

PARTNER STORIES

BIG BROTHERS BIG SISTERS OF CENTRAL ARIZONA

“Big Brothers Big Sisters urged Big and Little ‘matches’ to stop any in-person match meetings due to COVID-19 precautions. Instead of halting our services, Big Brothers Big Sisters quickly pivoted our procedures. Staff created a new way of conducting match meetings virtually. Using today’s technology we were still able to match Frank in our program. Little Brother Frank was enrolled in our program at the beginning of March just before everyone was unexpectedly asked to social distance. His mother wanted to find him a Big Brother so that he could have a strong male role model in his life. His father lives in Texas, but has decided not to have contact with the family. Frank and his younger brother live with their mother and older sister and do not have any other family in town.

After waiting patiently, Little Brother Frank finally met his Big Brother Rashaun on March 30th, via video chat. The two were matched because they both enjoy similar hobbies such as basketball, video games and learning new things. On the call, Frank and Rashaun were immediately able to find some other things they have in common. Along with support from their Program Specialist, Frank and Rashaun have found ways to connect virtually. They have begun to get to know each other and found some things they want to try once they can start going on outings. When the crisis is over, the two can hit the ground running together. Although they have fun outings planned, the most important part will be their time spent learning, growing and experiencing life together.”

PARTNER STORIES

ARIZONA ASSOCIATION FOR SUPPORTIVE CHILD CARE

“Thank you for giving us this opportunity to open up to new things to do with our little ones. Not only did they enjoy them, but so do we. These days they’ve had a lot of fun with the cups and at night we use the books. My eight-year-old daughter has offered to read to my 9-month-old baby girl every night. From the activities that are on the cards, we have made the little house and they love it. They are things that I would have not thought of doing and we have everything to do it. Really...thank you very much... have a nice day.”

VOLUNTEERS

HELPING VOLUNTEERS SERVE THEIR COMMUNITY FROM HOME

As of March 2020, more than 3,000 active United Way volunteers were supporting important programs and events. When the pandemic hit, we adjusted quickly and are providing virtual volunteer opportunities and connecting volunteers to those most in need.

VIRTUAL/AT-HOME OPPORTUNITIES INCLUDE:

- Corporate volunteers helped to create 125 Teacher Thank You cards.
- Corporate volunteers wrote notes to seniors at partner senior care facilities.
- Skill-based projects were posted on United Way website.
- Corporate volunteers read books, helped with STEAM projects and math problems through Read On Chandler site.

We're also partnering with the State of Arizona #AZTOGETHER initiative by connecting their volunteers with both live and virtual volunteer needs.

VELLO

VIRTUAL LEARNING

United Way is shifting its Vello program from tutors reading virtually with students on computers in their classrooms to tutors reading with students who are connected from devices at home. This new approach launched April 29th and should grow to 40-50 Washington Elementary and Academia del Pueblo students and 80-100 volunteers by mid-May. The program will continue expansion throughout the summer.

WE'RE HERE

UNITED WAY IS HERE FOR THE VALLEY FOR AS LONG AS IT TAKES

Similar to a natural disaster, the 2020 crisis will experience three phases: 1) Response, the immediate action needed during the crisis; 2) Recovery, the steps needed to safely help businesses reopen, help people get back to work and allow children to go back to school; and 3) Rebuild, the vision and tools necessary to create a new normal that utilizes what was learned during the crisis and will benefit our community moving forward.

This is an unprecedented time for our community and for every community across the globe. It's going to take every one of us, pulling together, to help those around us now, and likely long into the future. United Way's promise is that we'll continue seeking community input to focus where we're needed most to provide relief, support the Valley's recovery and to rebuild lives when it's time to move beyond the pandemic.

WE STILL NEED YOUR HELP

Please continue to provide relief, and when the time comes, support local nonprofits and schools through recovery and rebuilding. Donate to the United for the Valley COVID-19 Fund at www.vsuw.org/covid19fund or text Unitedfund to 51-555.
